

When the said bond and conditions shall be made William shall and lawfully shall and lawfully shall shall sell the whole of the lands hereunto devised with the appurtenances thereto belonging or any part credit for the most money that can be obtained for the same and that the money so arising shall as soon as may be be paid in the following manner, namely, Ten pounds per annum to my beloved wife during her life. Thirty pounds to my son Charles, Five pounds to my son James for his trouble in executing this Will. The remainder of the money arising as aforesaid to be equally divided between my sons George and Solomon. But in case Solomon should choose his share in land, then his equitable share shall be laid off for him by my executors in lieu of his share of the money aforesaid.

To my Grandson Sidney I give and bequeath ten pounds to be paid out of the abovesaid funds.

Provided, my wife and George and Solomon should agree on the matter, then George may likewise take his share in land they first agreeing with my executors to pay their mother and the other legacies herein before mentioned.

I further give and bequeath to my beloved wife the largest bay mare, her choice of a cow and calf, of three sheep and five hogs; also all my beds, cloaths, household furniture and vessels of every kind within doors (excepting such as is herein after bequeathed) to be divided equally at her desire among all my daughters who may be then alive. In case she should die intestate my executors shall be careful in making an equal distribution of the beds & furniture which is intended by the foregoing clause.

To my daughter Beth I give and bequeath one feather bed
