Mecklenburg County Has Population Of 150,858—(1940) 22,887 More Than 1930

Most of Gain Is In Charlotte Township

Mecklenburg County at present has a population of 150,858, an increase of 22,887 over the 1930 population in the county of 127,971, according to an announcement made today by Major L. B. Crayton, assistant supervisor of the Charlotte Census District.

The county's population increased almost 18 per cent during the ten-year period.

3,136 Farms

At the same time Major Crayton announced that now there are 3,136 farms in Mecklenburg County.

The population for the city of Charlotte was announced recently as 100,899, an increase of 18,224 over the 1930 population of 82,675. This means that all but 4,663 of the increase in the county's population has been within the city limits of Charlotte.

Township Gains

The population of Charlotte Township, which includes a fringe of land all the way around the city limits, has been announced as 112,986. This is an increase of 21,583 over the township's population of 91,624 in 1930.

According to these figures, all of the population gain in the county in the last ten years except 715 was within Charlotte Township.

Taking of the census in Mecklenburg County was completed recently, and all tabulation forms were mailed to the Bureau of the Census in Washington. The local census office was closed July 1.
