(Small Collections—Education) 3 folders

ABSTRACT

Central High School opened around 1908 as Charlotte High School, and was the first public high school in city. It was located at 1201 Elizabeth Avenue. In 1923, the school was renamed Central High School. In 1963, Mecklenburg College and the Central Industrial Education Center merged, and formed Central Piedmont Community College. Part of the Central campus today encompasses the former Central High building.

This collection includes printed materials.
